Updated on 01-14-2013 07:39 AM Report * Is there a plan of recording other channels? I haven't heard of them yet. Are any of them as good as Dot Dream or is it a bunch of gimmicks? * Will there be more videos? I could keep going on and on. * Re: The cost of the game: On mobile, I think I saw the game at $2.99 or $3.99, which is definitely fair, and if you would like to see what it is like, you can get a free-to-play app for iOS or Android. Moon World is an RPG about everyone and everything. People, places, items - everything is all here. In this world, someone has always murdered the monsters to absorb their power. But, you? You are a hero. You can't just be a victim of this rule. That's why you must fight. But, as you continue your journey, don't kill anything! Please observe the people and animals around you, and use your special abilities to save their spirits. We invite you to become a hero by supporting us. Moon World is a story about how you can change the world. The "Save & Love" system helps you cultivate your character! The more the hero saves, the more the hero will grow. Show us the power of love, and advance on to the next level. (Game site: I've been playing the demo for a little over 2 weeks now, and I can't get over the simple interface and pure amount of charm this game exudes. You wander in a crazy friendly town, doing quests, reading the news, staring at random objects, and just generally doing what you do. You can take turns walking around town and interacting with other people through the simple and intuitive actions system. The colours and the maps are incredibly cheerful and vibrant, and the whimsy of the world and characters is something I can't get enough of. I love the simple concept of the game - that the world is your friend and you just want to explore it and love it back. It's so charming I'm just... not bored. A little backstory might be in order here before I get into my love for this game. Imagine walking into a place - a world - where everything is completely normal. Where a room is a bit bigger than your average RPG room, but not excessively so. Where you can approach anyone on the street, and they will be friendly and accommodating, and even give you small gifts. Where everything is quiet and peaceful. Quiet and peaceful until you go and murder all the monsters. That's Moon World. It's hard to explain exactly what this game is about, so in a nutshell, it's an oldschool JRPG where you don't use your weapons to attack, but instead go around murdering everything you come across. You are a "hero" who goes about on a magical adventure, befriendng and helping an c9d1549cdd
