I know this is early, but I thought I would like to share some ideas. I will probably never use it, but I figure it is something I can learn from. Sorry about the long post. ===================== Hi Everyone. I am creating a Desktop Gadget for Windows XP that will run everytime you boot up your computer. The gadget runs as an application in memory, not a "service". The gadget will generate an xml file that will be saved to a folder. That xml file will contain information about the attributes of the running applications that were launched. Attributes like the window size, process name, icon, & more. From there, you can use any program you wish to manipulate the xml. I will include some of my own tools, but I know some of you are more than capable of creating their own. The goal of this project is to include the knowledge & the tools that I create with each release. I would love to hear your feedback on my ideas, as well as feedback on the xml format. Any feedback is welcome. Thanks, Zz.. ===================== About ZzSoft: zzsoft.com xtremecommunity.com ————————————————————————————— ZzSoft v11 Sample License Agreement Copyright (C) 2009 ZzSoft 1.
