An opening in the cup part 12 permits a shaft 15 of a rotating part, e.g. a rotor, to pass through. A cage 14 is provided at least at the end of the shaft 15 facing the shaft part 13. The cage 14 includes claws that are mounted to the shaft 15 in the region of the opening in the cup part 12. The claws extend radially into the opening. The predetermined number of claws is illustrated in

You can find the value in wp-includes/post.php if you're using the default theme. You'd need to find where you're setting that setting in your own theme and adjust the code that makes that call to adjust the value. When the value of this filter is a non-zero integer, WordPress will not save the post to the database and will instead show an error notice above the post. Q: How to remove fade out on mouse click in JavaScript? I'm currently trying to display an image (which will probably be sourced from a database) with a message that contains a button and a link. I want to fade the image out when the button is clicked and then fade it back in after a split second. I've got the animation of fade in and out, but I can
